Sorry to bother you Governor:

I know you are heading out of town soon. Bill McAllister wanted to interview you tomorrow regarding a possible run for the U.S. Senate or House. I explained that you had "family time" scheduled. I told him that you told the New York Times today that you love being Governor of Alaska and you have a lot on your plate. He was wondering if you could do a phoner at 6:45 tonight for the story tomorrow. Please let me know.

Republican Murkowski funneled money to road for her home

August 8, 2007

Anchorage, Alaska - Alaska Republican Senator Lisa Murkowski has secured $6 million in federal funds to build a road leading straight to a plot of land she bought - but was forced to sell - after being exposed July 16th by the TPMmuckraker website.

An August 7th article by Laura McGann and Paul Kiel at TPM, also says that her father, Alaska ex-governor Frank Murkowski, diverted $325,000 of state money while he was in office to her road.

From TPM - Sen. Ted Stevens (R-AK) and Rep. Don Young (R-AK) rounded up an extra $2 million for the three-mile road project, which is just under half mile from Murkowski's plot, which she sold back to Penney in the wake of the controversy.

And even that's not all. To cover matching costs required by some of the federal money, Murkowski's father, then-Gov. Frank Murkowksi ponied up another $325,000 in state funds. It's unclear whether the project, construction for which is set to begin next year, will boost the value of the land.

Dear Ms. Crome,

We've been awaiting a reply from our previous email sent to your office last week. Now that Icicle has released to the press their intentions to sell their company, our organization needs to request that your office and the Governor take action to discuss our proposal at the earliest moment.

We feel that any processing interest that might change hands might damage the possibility of recovering our property rights that were foreclosed on by the NPFMC. This serious matter of the NPFMC not following National Standards (NS) is not up for discussion, as we've provided you with the information of NS #4 and how our rights as private contractors were not issued.

We would appreciate your immediate attention to this email, and the discussion on how the Governor is going to proceed. I look forward to your correspondence tomorrow.

Thank you for the consideration of an endorsement from the Governor on this most earnest effort to restore the rights of fishermen and communities in Alaska, Washington, Oregon, and beyond for Bering Sea/Aleutian Island crab rationalization.

One other question: Are we also going with Tom McLaughlin to replace Don Giles for the large processor seat? He's with Seafood Producer's Cooperative which has the plant in Sitka and is owned by Alaska fisherman. We weren't able to find any large processor ceos in Alaska. Cora thinks Tom is most likely the best bet of all of the large processors (he's from Bellingham). This is the guy Paulette says has a good business mind.

This is the last item to check off and then we have ASMI taken care of.

Governor,

A good possibility for a small processor is Jack Schultheis of Kwikpak Fisheries. This is the company on the lower Yukon that Eric Olson works for. I'm still waiting for his resume, but I expect to have it soon. I know he has previous ASMI board experience and Kwikpak has a good reputation for quality.

You asked if we could find someone for the large processor seat who is an Alaskan resident. I did some research and did not find any large processors with an Alaska resident CEO. Given this, Tom McLaughlin at Seafood Producer's Cooperative is probably still our best candidate. He lives in Bellingham.

FYI, Icicle announced today that they are selling the company to a private equity firm in California, Fox Paine Management. No management changes are expected.

Alaska State Legislature

Official Business

Speaker of the House of Representatives

State Capitol
Juneau, Alaska 99801-1182
(907) 465-3720

August 9, 2007

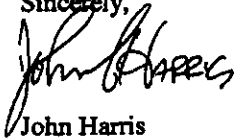
The Honorable Sarah Palin
Governor of Alaska
Office of the Governor
Juneau, Alaska

Dear Governor Palin:

As presiding officer for the Alaska House of Representatives, I have conducted a poll among all representatives in response to your August 3rd announcement regarding a special session on Petroleum Profits Tax (PPT). Our understanding is that you intend to issue a proclamation on September 4, 2007, to call the legislature into special session on October 18, 2007. You also requested help from legislators on their preference regarding where the special session should be located, and that was the subject of our poll.

All forty representatives were given the opportunity to express their thoughts, and there are differing opinions among members. Some feel that Juneau has the technical infrastructure in place to conduct floor sessions on a complex piece of legislation; others feel that Anchorage is more personally accessible for a greater number of Alaskans; and there are members who question whether a special session is even necessary or advisable at this time.

While Juneau received more votes than other locations, there is also a consensus among many House members that you, as the governor, are responsible for determining both the location and the subject matter to be discussed.

Many members referenced state law that requires whichever entity that calls for a special session – whether it's the governor or the legislature – to be the same entity that determines the location (AS 24.05.100). However, Juneau Representative Beth Kerttula and two other members from the House Minority Caucus have raised a question over whether any governor has the constitutional authority to determine the location of a special session under the doctrine of separation of powers.


We look forward to working with you and your administration toward conducting a special session that assesses whether the state is getting its fair share of oil and gas revenues, and whether the credits are optimally designed to provide the maximum impact of encouraging investment that leads to more oil and gas production. We believe the best approach is to hear from you regarding what issues will be specifically addressed, and where you would like to see the session located.

Sincerely,

John Harris
Speaker of the House

In today's cabinet meeting the Governor asked that we make sure we have people involved and we stay ahead of the AGIA deadline extension discussion. We need to be involved where necessary with talk shows, media, business etc so Alaskans can understand where we are (positive interest) versus the nay sayers. We are hearing no applicants and we are listening to complaints that we don't know where they are even coming from. Marty, since you are traveling would you call and lets discuss as soon as possible. Thanks Tom

So we'll go with Jack Schultheis to replace Duncan Fields in the small processor seat per your email.

One other question: Are we also going with Tom McLaughlin to replace Don Giles for the large processor seat? He's with Seafood Producer's Cooperative which has the plant in Sitka and is owned by Alaska fisherman. We weren't able to find any large processor ceos in Alaska. Cora thinks Tom is most likely the best bet of all of the large processors (he's from Bellingham). This is the guy Paulette says has a good business mind.

This is the last item to check off and then we have ASMI taken care of.

B&C received the application and resume of Jack Schultheis today. He's the guy Cora recommended for the small processor seat. He's the sales manager for Kwik Pak Fisheries in Anchorage. He's from Wasilla; he served on ASMI under Hickel; he's supportive of the good work your doing as governor; and, we received an endorsement letter from Eric Olson-- As Cora mentioned, they work together at Kwik Pack.

Governor,

A good possibility for a small processor is Jack Schultheis of Kwikpak Fisheries. This is the company on the lower Yukon that Eric Olson works for. I'm still waiting for his resume, but I expect to have it soon. I know he has previous ASMI board experience and Kwikpak has a good reputation for quality.

You asked if we could find someone for the large processor seat who is an Alaskan resident. I did some research and did not find any large processors with an Alaska resident CEO. Given this, Tom McLaughlin at Seafood Producer's Cooperative is probably still our best candidate. He lives in Bellingham.

FYI, Icicle announced today that they are selling the company to a private equity firm in California, Fox Paine Management. No management changes are expected.

I'm sure the Empire is picking up on this because of the Budget Report. The story was basically the Budget Report transcribing the audio tape from the meeting. There are numerous asides referencing the rambling nature of Mr. Brady's comments. In the transcript, Brady says he advised the Governor that he intended to make the proposal and said that he did not allow her to comment, that he did not ask for her input, and that the only thing the Governor said was, "You have a lot of guts."(A nice self-serving reporting of the "conversation.")

As background, Greg Erickson has submitted his name for consideration for the open PFC seat. He has no love lost for Mr. Brady.

It was the weirdest conversation. He was rambling - I didnt get a word in edgewise - and he told me he was going to tell his board that he wanted to see the office move to Anchorage so they could hire more qualified people. Empire should interview him, not me. (And it was so long ago I cant say what month it was)

Here's a weird one. Do you recall speaking with Carl Brady with the Alaska Permanent Fund Corporation back in March regarding moving the corporate offices from Juneau to Anchorage?

Carl Brady told the board that he talked to you about it (in March) and the Juneau Empire is following up. Why now - I have no idea!

Good morning Janice,

I wanted to let you know that Alaska Brewing company has now donated Alaska Beer for our Charity event, so it is truly going to be a full on Alaska dinner!! It's fantastic.

Menu will be : Smoke Alaska Black Cod Croquette, Salad, Bristol Bay Red King Crab, and Baked Alaska for dessert.

We will be donating everything to the childrens Charity including proceeds from t-shirts and pictures autographed by the skippers that afternoon. We are closing down Main Street in Sarasota for the autograph session, and will have music and beverages. At the dinner we will have a live auction with the premier item being a trip for 2 up to Dutch Harbor on our annual Crab Connoisseur Tour in October which will be October 27 – 29th. This will be bringing the lucky bidder along with 50+ Chefs and Retailers from all over the country up to Dutch fro the opener of the 2007 Red King Crab fishery.

Everyone would really love to see Governor Palin in Sarasota. Phil, Johnathan, Andy, Keith and Larry would love to have her attend. Senator Bennett from Florida has also asked if the Governor will be able to attend.

This would really put the bow on the package if it is possible. Please contact me if you have any questions.

I look forward to hearing from you.

All the best,

In response to the deck truss bridge collapse in Minnesota earlier this week, the DOT&PF Bridge Section has examined our bridge inventory and found six structures of similar (deck truss) construction. All six of these bridges will be inspected by September 1, 2007 as part of our on-going inspection program. The six deck truss bridges in Alaska include:

- Kuskulana River Bridge on the McCarthy Road
- Robertson River Bridge on the Alaska Highway
- Susitna River Bridge on the Denali Highway
- Nenana River Bridge at Moody on the Parks Highway
- Big River Center Crossing Bridge in Icy Bay
- Big River West Crossing Bridge in Icy Bay
